PREFACE.

---

NO APOLOGY will be made for this publication. It seemed of sufficient consequence to the undersigned to present to the public, in convenient form, the diversified and eminent happenings of a Boston musical season. It is believed that all the matter is authentic, and the writer acknowledges his great obligations to those givers of concerts who have co-operated with him by sending their programmes and patiently hearing his inquiries. Certain features which at first suggested themselves concerning the general musical status are omitted; but, if this record meets with recognition sufficient to guarantee its publication during each successive season, its scope may be broadened by the addition of these features.

GEO. H. WILSON.

BOSTON, May 10, 1884.

INTRODUCTION.

THE following pages are self-explanatory. Indexed with the name of the composer will be found the compositions heard, the names of the performers, and the concert giver in italics. The usual order of naming the players of the pianoforte trio or quartet is not maintained ; for, with a single exception, the player of the pianoforte part is the giver of the concert. It may also be stated that, wherever the name of Mr. Henschel or Mrs. Henschel appears as the concert giver, their vocal recitals, given under the name of Mr. and Mrs. Henschel, are meant. The * indicates a first performance in Boston.

The early date of publication prevents, for the present, classification of the programmes of organ music given by Mr. Frederick Archer, and by Mr. Leavitt; of pianoforte music by Mr. Conant and Miss Furshour or the miscellaneous programmes of the Temple Choral Union and the Boston Oratorio Society.

That portion of this work which now follows relates to the local season, and professes to show the distinctive features of the work of separate societies. The limits of the book prevent any extended notice of disconnected events.

THE BOSTON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA.

Organized 1881.

Conductor, Mr. GEORG HENSCHEL.

Leader, Mr. B. LISTEMANN.

The season consisted of twenty-four concerts and twenty-four public rehearsals, October 13 to March 22.

At each concert, one symphony was played.

Symphonies by the following composers were given: Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven (nine), Mendelssohn, Schubert, Schumann, Berlioz, Brahms, Rubinstein, Raff, Svendsen, Volkmann, Dvorák, J. O. Grimm, J. K. Paine.

One symphony (Dvorák's in D) had two performances.

One symphony by an American.

Mr. G. W. Chadwick and Mr. J. K. Paine are the only American composers represented in the series.

Mr. Chadwick's Scherzo was repeated at its rehearsal performance, — the only encore in the history of the organization.

Mr. J. K. Paine conducted the performance of his "Spring Symphony."

The following mentioned were the soloists of the series :—

Vocalists.—Mrs. F. A. Gower (Lillian Norton), Miss Hattie Louise Simms, Miss Gertrude Franklin, Miss Marguerite Hall, Mrs. Georg Henschel, Mrs. Humphrey-Allen, Miss Hope Glenn, Miss Louise Rollwagen, Miss Emily Winant, Mr. Max Heinrich, Mr. Georg Henschel, Mr. T. J. Toedt,—six sopranos, three contraltos, two bassos, one tenor.

Pianists.—Miss Mary O'Brien, Miss O. V. Radecki, Mme. Madeline Schiller, Mme. Helen Hopekirk, Mr. Arthur Foote, Mr. Geo. Magrath, Mr. Ernst Perabo, Mr. Carl Faelten, Mr. Carl Baermann, Mr. B. J. Lang.

Instrumentalists.—Mr. Fritz Giese ('cello) and eight gentlemen of the orchestra,—Messrs. B. Listemann, Loeffler, Schmidt, De Séve (violin), Mueller ('cello), Strasser (clarinet), Heindl (flute), Freygang (harp).

Of the soloists (excepting members of the orchestra), five pianoforte virtuosi and four sopranos only were resident in Boston.

This is the classification of the works given for the first time : Symphonies, five; other orchestral selections, eleven; vocal selections (single voice), two; pianoforte concertos, two; concerto for flute and harp, one; violin concertos, two; Romance for violin, one; Romance for violoncello, one.

At one concert, Mr. Henschel conducted the orchestra, sang, and was represented in the programme as a composer.

The conductor of the orchestra played all the pianoforte accompaniments.

Of Mr. Henschel's writings, a Serenade for strings and a Ballad for violin were played.

HANDEL AND HAYDN SOCIETY.

Organized 1815.

CARL ZERRAHN, Conductor.

B. J. LANG, Organist.

Female Choir.

Mr. W. A. Locke, Accompanist.

The new compositions of Boston composers heard for the first time were:—

Chadwick, G. W.: Scherzo in F for Orchestra; Romanza for Violin.

Foote, Arthur: String Quartet in G minor.

Hood, Helen: "The Robin," part song for mixed chorus.

Lang, B. J.: "Hi-fe-lin-ke-le," part song for male voices.

Thayer, A. W.: "Credo," "Sunset Song," part songs for male voices.

Grand Opera in Boston has been represented under Mr. Mapleson's management—Signor Arditi, musical director—by "Linda," "La Traviata," "Faust," "L' Elisir d' Amore," "Semiramide," "Lucia," and "Norma"; these were given in one week in December, with the following soloists: Mme. Patti, Mme. Gerster, Mme. Pappenheim, Mme. Giglio Nordica (Mrs. Gower), Miss Josephine Yorke, Signor Galassi, Signor Cherubini, Signor Vinci, Signor Bello, Signor Caracciolo. Mr. Abbey in two short seasons (ten days in December and one week in March) gave the following operas: "Faust," "Lucia," "Il Trovatore." * "La Gioconda" (Ponchielli), "La Traviata," "Il Barbiere di Siviglia," "Lohengrin," "Martha," "Carmen," "Hamlet," "Mefistofele," "Roberto il Diavolo," "Don Giovanni," "Le Prophète." Mr. Abbey's musical directors were Signor C. Campanini and Signor Vianesi, and his soloists were Mme. Nilsson, Mme. Scalchi, Mme. Lablache, Mme. Sembrich, Mme. Valeria, Mme. Fursch-Madi, Mme. Trebelli, Signor Campanini, Signor Novara, Signor Del Puente, Signor Stagno, Signor Kaschmann, Signor Capoul.

Mr. B. J. Lang gave five lectures at Chickering Hall, upon "Teaching the Art of Playing the Pianoforte," "Mr. Lang's System of Modern Pianoforte Technics," "The Higher Development of the Musical Sense."

The "Great Organ" of the Music Hall, dedicated Nov. 2, 1863, was sold, and removed from the hall in May.

RETROSPECT.

To recognize and briefly record organized sources of musical performances in Boston, as a matter of history, seems in keeping with the mission of this book.

"The Händel and Haydn Society" was formed in 1815 for the study of oratorio music, and still exists.

"The Academy" gave instrumental music, symphonies, etc., from 1840 to 1847.

"The Musical Education Society," a chorus of a hundred singers, assisted at concerts given by "The Academy," and outlived that organization several years.

"The Musical Fund Society" gave instrumental and vocal concerts from 1849 to 1855.

"The Germania Musical Society" came to Boston in 1849.

"The Steyernachers," in 1846.

"The Saxonians" and "Gungl's Waltz Band," in 1848.

"The Germania Society" existed until 1854, giving concerts each year.

"The Harvard Musical Association" gave a series of chamber concerts yearly from 1844 to 1850.

"The Mendelssohn Quintet Club," existing since 1850, have been heard from time to time in series of string quartet and quintet concerts.

Italian opera came first in 1847.

"The Orpheus Musical Society," the pioneer male singing club of the city, was formed in 1853 by August Kreissmann. The club still exists, though in recent years it has given no concerts.

Mr. Zerrahn's orchestral concerts continued from 1857 to 1863.

"The Orchestral Union" gave afternoon symphony concerts during 1863, 1864, and 1865.

In 1862, Mr. J. C. D. Parker organized the "Parker Club," of mixed voices, and for several years gave secular cantatas and part songs with pianoforte accompaniment.

"The Mozart Club," an amateur orchestra, existed during 1860-64.

In 1865, Mr. Julius Eichberg gave a set of orchestral concerts.

From 1866 to 1882 inclusive, "The Harvard Musical Association" maintained a yearly season of symphony concerts, under the leadership of Mr. Carl Zerrahn.

During that time, Mr. B. J. Lang gave three short sets of symphony concerts.

"The Cecilia," Mr. B. J. Lang, conductor, was formed in 1874, and gives yearly a series of cantata concerts.

"The Apollo Club," Mr. B. J. Lang, conductor, was formed in 1871, and has given from then on principally works of the largest order for male voices and orchestra, interspersed with part songs.

"The Boylston Club" (Mr. J. B. Sharland, conductor at first, and from 1875 Mr. G. L. Osgood) cultivates the part song, with and without pianoforte accompaniment, for male, female, and mixed choirs. It gives attention also to the unaccompanied works of the old Italian school. Frequently, larger works with orchestral accompaniment are produced.

Mr. George L. Osgood in 1876 gave a series of concerts which afforded a study of vocal and instrumental chamber music from the fifteenth century.

The "Arlington Club" of male voices (first Mr. W. J. Winch and now Mr. G. W. Chadwick, conductor) has given a series of concerts during each of the past five years.

The "Philharmonic Club" (Bernhard Listemann, leader) and the "Beethoven Club" (C. N. Allen, leader) have given many sets of string quartet concerts since 1871.

The "Euterpe" has given a series of string quartet concerts in each of the past five years.

The "Boston Oratorio Society" gave Gounod's "Redemption" in 1883, with pianoforte and organ accompaniment.

The "Philharmonic Society" gave three seasons of symphony concerts from 1880-81, under conductors Mr. B. Listemann, Dr. Louis Maas, and Mr. Carl Zerrahn.

During the season preceding the establishment of the Philharmonic Society, Mr. Listemann gave a series of Symphony concerts with an orchestra called the "Philharmonic."

Of resident pianists who have given sets of concerts of classical music may be named, in possible order of extent, Messrs. B. J. Lang, Otto Dresel, Ernst Perabo, Hugo Leonhard, Arthur Foote, J. C. D. Parker, Carlyle Petersilea, Wm. H. Sherwood, H. G. Tucker, Louis Maas, Otto Bendix, John Orth, James A. Hills.

During the past ten years, Theodore Thomas has given several sets of orchestral concerts.

Mr. B. J. Lang has given "La Damnation de Faust," of Berlioz, three times; and, in 1883, his pianoforte recitals were made notable by the performance of all the pianoforte works of Robert Schumann.

For many of the facts noted in these paragraphs, the published work of John S. Dwight, Esq., History of Music in Boston, is the authority.

PREFACE.

THE BOSTON MUSICAL YEAR BOOK has reached its second volume, because the first seemed to supply a want. It is the purpose of the work, so far as it relates to local happenings, to record all that transpires at concerts of musical importance, given under professional auspices, and where public patronage is solicited. It, therefore, does not include private and miscellaneous programmes, nor the performances of pupils and music schools. The work of preparation has again been carried on with the kind aid of concert givers and others. New features are introduced, and the old retained. The book can easily become more far-reaching in its notice of new works and first performances, wherever given; more subscribers will insure this.

It may be said, in explanation of the general index, that it is prepared exactly as in Vol. I. The name of the concert giver appears in italics; the * indicates a first performance in Boston; the † that the works were performed at a series of concerts representing American composers. Facts concerning the programmes of the larger societies, which do not appear in the general index, and the names of the active members of the singing clubs, are separately shown. Mr. Conant and Miss Mowry were joint entrepreneurs, as were Mr. Adamowski and Mr. Johns, and the Misses O'Brien and Radecki.

THE BOSTON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA.

Fourth Season.

Conductor, WILHELM GERICKE.

Leader, BERNHARD LISTEMANN.

The season comprised twenty-four concerts and twenty-four public rehearsals, continuing from October 18 to March 28.

One symphony was given at each concert, excepting the Bach Commemoration, and the concert of January 24 (when the Goldmark "Rustic Wedding Suite," op. 26, was played), and February 14, when there were two.

The symphonies were:—

Beethoven: Nos. 1 in C, 2 in D, 3 in E-flat (Eroica), 4 in B-flat, 5 in C minor, 6 in F (Pastoral), 7 in A, 8 in F; Brahms: Nos. 2 in D, 3 in F*; Haydn: Nos. 2 in D, 12 in B-flat; Mendelssohn: Nos. 3 in A minor (Scotch), 4 in A (Italian); Mozart: in G minor, in C (Jupiter), No. 5 in D; Schubert: Nos. 6 in C,* 9 in C; Schumann: Nos. 1 in B-flat, 3 in E-flat (Rhenish), 4 in D minor; Volkmann: in D minor.* Those marked with an asterisk were given for the first time in Boston.

The list of new works for orchestra, excepting symphonies, played for the first time in Boston, numbers seven: Overtures, "Hermann and Dorothea," Schumann; "King Richard III.," Volkmann; Concerto for Strings, No. 12, Händel; Tanz-Momente, Herbeck; Three movements from ballet, "La Vigne," Rubinstein; Transcriptions: Prelude, Andante, and Gavotte for Strings, Bach-Bachrich; Three Sonata movements, Bach-Gericke.

Of the selections presented by the soloists, six were new: Fantasie Norvégienne for violin, Lalo, and Adagio from Violin Concerto, No. 2, in D minor, Bruch (Mr. Loeffler); Concertstück for Violin, op. 20, Saint-Saëns (Mr. Adamowski); Concerto for 'Cello, in D minor, op. 32, De Swert (Mr. Giese); Aria from XVI. Anthem, Händel (Miss Rollwagen); Song, "The Dream King and his Love," Raff (Miss Ita Welsh).

The only composers throughout the entire series who were not German are Berlioz, Cherubini, Gade, Liszt, Rubinstein, and Saint-Saëns. These are represented by seven compositions, neither of which is a symphony.

No American composer was represented.

The Bach Commemoration programme (March 21) was: Toccata for Orchestra, arranged by Esser; Aria, "My Heart ever Faithful," Miss Emma Juch (Mr. H. G. Tucker, piano; Mr. Fritz Giese, 'cello); Ciaccona for Violin (unaccompanied), Mr. Loeffler; Parts I, II., of "Christmas Oratorio." Soloists: Miss Emma Juch, Miss Emily Winant, Mr. W. J. Winch, Mr. Franz Remmert; organist, Mr. B. J. Lang; pianist, Mr. H. G. Tucker.

The soloists for the series were:—

Vocalists.—Miss Ita Welsh, Miss Emma Juch, Miss Mary H. How, Miss Louise Rollwagen, Miss Gertrude Franklin, Miss Agnes B. Huntington, Miss Emily Winant, Mr. W. J. Winch, Mr. Franz Remmert, —two sopranos, five contraltos, one ténor, one bass.

The Ideal English Opera Company produced at the Globe Theatre, March 31, for the first time in Boston, an arrangement by Oscar Weil of Serpette's operetta, "Fanfaneluche," styled "Fanchonette." The same company, on Friday, April 3, gave for the first time in Boston "Giralda," an arrangement of the Opéra Comique, "Giralda, ou la Nouvelle Psyche," text by Eugène Scribe, music by Adolphe Adam.

IN GENERAL.

The new compositions of Boston composers heard for the first time were:—

Brckett, F. H.: "Cavalier's Song," part song for male voices.

Chadwick, G. W.: Introduction and Allegro of Symphony No. 2, in B-flat.

Foote, Arthur: "If Doughty Deeds," part song for male voices.

Maas, L.: Sonata for piano and violin in E-flat, op. 16.

Osgood, G. L.: "Proposal," part song for male voices.

Whiting, G. E.: "Henry of Navarre," ballad for male chorus, tenor solo, and orchestra, op. 48.

Master Leopold Godowsky, pianist, appeared at a Sunday concert at the Boston Theatre, in conjunction with Miss Clara Louise Kellogg and others, playing: Mendelssohn, Prelude and Fugue in E minor; Chopin, Scherzo in B minor. At a concert for charity, given in Music Hall, Mr. Carl Baermann played: Field, Nocturne in E-flat; Liszt, Rhapsodie Hongroise, No. 12; with Miss Alice L. Edwards, the Rheinberger duet for pianofortes, op. 15; with Mr. Loeffler, the Kreutzer Sonata for violin and piano, in A, op. 47. Mme. Fursch-Madi sang at one of the lecture course concerts; and, in the same programme, new part-songs by H. W. Cowles and H. M. Dow were heard. Messrs. Allen, Fries, and Dennée played the Schubert trio in B-flat, op. 99, and Mr. Dennée the "Halka Fantasia," by Tausig, at a concert not otherwise notable. At the opening of the new Knabe pianoforte warerooms, this programme was given: Mendelssohn-Moscheles, "Duo Concertante" for pianofortes (Messrs. Orth and Bendix); Schubert, string quartet, op. 29 (Beethoven Club); Saint-Saëns, Caprice on themes from Gluck's "Alceste," for piano (Mr. Bendix); Mendelssohn, Canzonetta for strings, op. 12; Tchaikowski, Andante from string quartet, op. 11 (Beethoven Club); Jensen, Kypris for piano, op. 44, No. 7; Chopin, Etude for piano, in F minor, op. 25, No. 2; Moszkowski, Polonaise for piano, in E-flat (Mr. Orth); Schumann, Quintet in E-flat, Allegro Brillante, Scherzo (Mr. Bendix and Beethoven Club). Mrs. W. H. Sherwood played two or more programmes of pianoforte music to audiences which it is believed were gathered by invitation, assisted by Miss White and Mrs. Tippet, sopranos.

Prof. J. K. Paine delivered a course of twenty-five lectures on the "History of Music," with vocal and instrumental illustrations.

Mr. B. J. Lang gave twelve Symphony-concert Lessons, analytical and explanatory of certain of the Symphony Concert programmes.

The Arlington Club did not reorganize.

As this book goes to press, announcement is made of a series of concerts to be called "The Music Hall Popular Concerts," with Mr. Adolph Neuendorff as musical director. The plan is to give, beginning in May, three concerts each week, having as the chief feature of the programmes the lighter orchestral compositions.

Mr. Lang commemorated Bach's two-hundredth birthday with this programme: Concerto for two pianofortes in C minor; Concerto for harpsichord in A; Concerto for three pianofortes in C; the "Coffee" Cantata; Concerto for four pianofortes in A minor.

The Boston Orchestral Club, formed through the efforts of Mr. Percival Gassett, was organized in October, to furnish amateurs and young professionals of both sexes opportunity for the practice of orchestral music. Mr. Bernhard Listemann conducted the weekly rehearsal and the three concerts given before its associate members.

INTRODUCTORY.

WITH hesitation, and the temerity with which one sometimes acts who desires to do what seems a good thing but whose practical justification is only negatively certain, the third volume of the "Year Book" is put forward to represent the happenings, not only in a single city, but in a degree the entire country. It is not claimed that the new venture will meet every expectation. The compiler, though he may be an enthusiast, is not a philanthropist, and the usual apathy of any special public toward what would really serve it has made him cautious in enlarging the work too rapidly. He would like a support for future volumes, which would permit the preparation of a complete record of the music in the United States, believing that he has the resources which would produce it. With the present volume, the reader may at least scan the musical horizon of the country for the past season, and reach an estimate of results. The state of activity in the field of orchestral music is shown, while the work of the singing clubs is presented in detail sufficient to furnish interesting comparisons. What the compiler chiefly desires is to record, each season, the condition of local enterprises; and, in this connection, it may not seem presuming to suggest greater care in programme-making on the part of all who hold this important trust. The * is used throughout the book to indicate a first performance in any given city. The compiler takes this opportunity to thank those whose subscriptions for the book antedated its publication.

The record of the Boston season includes all public concerts, excepting those of music schools, and the complimentary and miscellaneous affairs which have only passing significance. The manner of statement in general index is as formerly; the works performed are classified under an alphabetical arrangement of composers' names, the name of the concert-giver being shown in italics. The full programmes of the singing societies are displayed, and some general paragraphs, important in estimating the scope of the season, given. Mr. Adamowski and Mr. Johns were joint entrepreneurs, as were the Misses Abbott and White, the Misses Allen and Laine. "Bumstead" designates a series of chamber concerts at a hall of that name.

BOSTON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA.

Fifth Season.

Conductor, WILHELM GERICKE.

Leader, FRANZ KNEISEL.

Symphony Series.

The season comprised twenty-four concerts and twenty-four public rehearsals, from October 17 to March 27.

At three concerts, when a symphony was not performed, the space was taken respectively by: Symphonic Poem, "The Tempest," J. K. Paine; music to Goethe's "Egmont," Beethoven (singer, Miss Emma Juch; reader, Mr. Howard M. Ticknor); Schumann's music to Byron's "Manfred" (reader, Mr. George Riddle; soloists, Miss E. H. Eames, Miss Mary H. How, Mr. C. F. Webber, Mr. C. E. Hay).

Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and Schumann's in C major, No. 3, were played in the same programme as were the E-flat major, No. 3, of Haydn, and Dvorák's in D major.

The symphonies were :—

Beethoven: Nos. 2 in D, 3 in E-flat (Eroica), 6 in F (Pastoral), 7 in A, 9 in D minor (Choral); Berlioz: "Symphonie Fantastique," "Harold"; Brahms: No. 1 in C minor, No. 3 in F major; Cowen: in C ("Scandinavian"); Dvorák: in D major; Fuchs: in C major*; Haydn: No. 3 in E-flat; Liszt: "Dante"; Mendelssohn: No. 5 in D ("Reformation"); Mozart: in E-flat, No. 3; Raff: No. 3 in F ("Im Walde"), No. 5 ("Lenore"); Rheinberger: "Wallenstein"; Rubinstein: No. 2 in C ("Ocean"); Schubert: No. 6 in C major, No. 8 in B minor ("Unfinished"); Schumann: No. 2 in C major.

First performances, excepting works presented by soloists, were: Suite in B minor for Flute and Strings, with piano accompaniment by Robert Franz, Bach; Concert Overture, W. Ecker; Symphony in C minor, R. Fuchs; "Chorus of Homage," Three Movements from Serenade for Strings, W. Gericke; "Scènes Pittoresques," J. Massenet (the Fête Bohême movement had been played by Theodore Thomas); Haffner Serenade, Mozart; Prelude, Minuet and Fugue for Strings, H. Reinhold; Concert Overture, Arthur Whiting.

Three new works were brought out by soloists: Rhapsodie d'Auvergne for Piano, Saint-Saëns (Mr. B. J. Lang); Concerto for Violin in G major, E. Bernard (Mr. T. Adamowski); Aria, "Ah, Cruel Theseus," Spohr (Miss Gertrude Franklin).

Twelve new works in a total of ninety-four were given.

Two American composers, John K. Paine, Arthur Whiting, were represented.

The choral works heard were: Ninth Symphony, Beethoven; "Chorus of Homage," Gericke; Final Movement from Liszt's "Dante" Symphony.

These special concerts took place: Sunday evening, March 28, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony and Leonora Overture, No. 3, and an aria by Mozart, "Bella mia fiamma," sung by Miss Gertrude Franklin, as a testimonial to members of the orchestra; Friday afternoon (rehearsal), January 15, a programme containing none of the choral works heard at the evening concert of the 16th, at which Mr. Charles F. Webber sang "Vainement Pharaon," from Méhul's "Joseph," and Liszt's "Loreley," song with piano.

At two concerts there was no soloist.

The soloists of the series, excepting those having parts in choral works, were:—

Vocalists.—Miss Gertrude Franklin, Mme. Fursch-Madi, Miss Medora Henson, Miss Emma Juch, Mme. Lillian Norton.

Pianists.—Mrs. H. H. A. Beach, Mr. Carl Baermann, Mr. Arthur Foote (Bach suite), Mr. Raphael Joseffy, Mr. B. J. Lang, Miss Adèle Margulies, Mr. George M. Nowell, Frau Anna Steiniger-Clark, the Misses O'Brion and Radecki (in duos).

Violinists.—Mr. T. Adamowski, Mr. Leandro Campanari, Mr. Franz Kneisel (appeared at three concerts, playing two concertos and the viola part in "Harold" Symphony), Mr. C. M. Loeffler, Mr. Willis E. Nowell; 'cellist, Mr. Fritz Giese (members of the orchestra, excepting Mr. Nowell).

Boston furnished all the soloists except six.

No man singer was heard in the regular course, except in concerted music.

Mme. Fursch-Madi, Miss Mary H. How, Mr. T. J. Toedt, Dr. Carl E. Martin, formed the solo quartet in the Ninth Symphony.

Popular Series.

Four Saturday evening concerts, preceded by matinées on Friday afternoons, were given during May.

The novelties of the course were: Second Suite, "L'Arlésienne," Bizet; Adagio from a Symphony, Baumgartner; Suite for Strings, op. 12, Arthur Foote; Overture, "Hans Heiling," Marschner; Intermezzo in Scherzo form, Reinhold.

The only soloist was Fräulein Lilli Lehmann, who sang at the Fourth Concert: "Ach ich liebte," from Mozart's "Die Entführung"; Isolde's Liebestod from "Tristan and Isolde," Wagner, and songs with piano. The selections for orchestra at this concert were chiefly from Berlioz and Wagner.

A specimen programme is that of May 15: Marschner, * Overture, "Hans Heiling"; Arthur Foote, * Suite for Strings, op. 12; H. Reinhold, * Intermezzo (Scherzo); Dvorák, Slavonian Dances; L. Délibes, Waltz, "Sylvia"; M. Glinka, "Komarinskaja"; Wagner, Overture, "Rienzi."

During May, the orchestra gave two morning concerts before pupils of the public schools, who came by invitation.

M.

Musin's most serious selection was the Wieniawski Fantasia on Russian airs. Mme. Emma Nevada and cortège gave several concerts of conventional character, the tenor being M. Vergnet. Concerts were given by pupils of the Royal Normal College for the Blind, of London, Mr. Alfred Hollins, pianist; Mr. John Moncur, tenor; Miss Jennie Giebert, pianist; Miss Amelia Campbell, soprano. Mr. Hollins played, with orchestra: Beethoven, Concerto in E-flat major, No. 5, op. 73; Schumann, Concerto in A minor, op. 54; Liszt, Fantasia Hongroise. At a concert for charity, Mrs. H. H. A. Beach played a programme of piano music, which included a Klavier-Stück in waltz form, by Carl Baermann. Mr. Aptommas, the harpist, gave several concerts. At a Sunday popular concert, under Mr. Neuendorff, the Andante from Tschaikowski's Third Symphony was played for the first time in Boston.

At South Congregational Church, May 2, Saint-Saëns' Christmas Oratorio was sung under Mr. Lang's direction, with the accompaniment of organ, violin, and harp.

Rev. H. R. Haweis gave a course of six lectures on "Music and Morals" before the Lowell Institute.

Mr. Louis C. Elson delivered a course of seven lectures on "Musical Topics," with vocal and instrumental illustrations.

MUSIC SCHOOLS.

The New England Conservatory of Music is the outcome of the first effort made in this country to teach music in classes. The plan had a beginning in 1853. In 1859, it was embodied in the Providence Conservatory of Music, at Providence, R.I. In 1867, the school was removed to Boston, where, in 1870, it was incorporated under its present title. It began the season of 1882-83 in the building formerly known as the St. James Hotel (having some three hundred rooms), and established a home for its lady students, numbering three hundred the first year, and an increasing number since. In 1885, an act of incorporation was granted, which increased the power of the corporation in the matter of holding real estate, and cancelled its stock. In the same year, Eben Tourjée, who, from the earliest beginning in 1853 had been its director, made a deed of trust, in concurrence with other stockholders, transferring in perpetuity all his right, title, and interest in the New England Conservatory of Music to a board of fifty trustees. Article six of the by-laws reads: "Eben Tourjée is hereby elected, and chosen for life, Director of this Corporation; but he may resign at any time when he shall desire so to do." The Director's report of 1885 stated that 2,005 students from 55 States, Territories, provinces, and foreign countries had been enrolled. The number of graduates for the school year 1884-85 was 45, embracing: pianoforte, harmony and theory, 17; organ, harmony and theory, 7; theory of the voice, 5; with others in the departments of organ-tuning, theory of violin, conducting, and counterpoint. Five graduates took more than one complete course. The curriculum of the school, besides the usual musical courses, including orchestral and band instruments, gives deliberate attention to sight-singing, church music, tuning, general literature and advanced English studies, drawing and painting, modelling, elocution, physical culture, etc. Lectures and analyses are important features. Concerts by pupils and by teachers, both in the school building and in the public halls of the city, are frequent. Graduates' recitals are expected. The following was given by a pianoforte graduate in 1885: Concerto No. 3, C minor (with 2d piano), Beethoven; Andante for Piano and 'Cello, arranged from String Quartet, op. 11, Tschaiakowski; First Movement from Sonata, B-flat, op. 107, Mendelssohn; Nocturne, F, op. 10, No. 2, Tschaiakowski; Valse Brillante, op. 13, Scharwenka; Romance for Piano and 'Cello, op. 22, Scharwenka; Bolero, Moszkowski; Turkish March, two pianos, Mozart. At an organ recital by H. M. Dunham, Sept. 16, 1884, the following works were given, it is said, for the first time in Boston: Sonata, C minor, Guilmant; Canons in E minor and A major, Salome; Prière in A-flat, Guilmant; Grand Chœur in D major, De Shays; Fugue, Andante religioso, and Marche solennelle, Lemaigre. The Commencement concert programme of 1885, given in Music Hall, was: Meyerbeer, organ, Schiller, March; Mattei, vocal, "Un Bicchier"; Schumann, piano, Etudes Symphoniques, op. 13;

Proch, vocal, Air and Variations in D; De Beriot, violin, First Movement from First Concerto; Recitation; Mendelssohn, organ, Second Sonata; Schubert, song, "Impatience"; Taubert, song, "Bird Song"; Beethoven, piano, First Movement from Sonata Appassionata, op. 57; Hollander, violin, "Spinning Song"; Mercadante, vocal, "Se m'abbandoni"; Liszt, piano, Rhapsodie Hongroise, No. 2; Abt, vocal, aria from "Le Pré aux Clers"; Schumann, part song, "Gypsy Life," by Glee Club.

The Boston Conservatory of Music was established by Julius Eichberg, its present director, in 1867. Mr. Eichberg had had in Europe the instruction of the most noted violin teachers; and his school, while it has always maintained a corps of instructors in the several branches of music, has given especial prominence to the violin, Mr. Eichberg and pupils graduated by him being personally in charge of all such scholars. Features connected with the school are its frequent public recitals in the larger halls of the city, at which whole classes of violin students appear.

The Petersilea Academy.—Carlyle Petersilea, graduate of the pianoforte department of the Leipzig Conservatory of Music in 1865, founded the Petersilea Academy in 1871. Its musical courses, which are complete, are supplemented by others in languages, drawing and painting, rhetoric and English literature. Students of the pianoforte are, perhaps, in the ascendancy, owing to the especial labors and preparation of Mr. Petersilea in that branch. Concerts by pupils and teachers, while occurring at no set periods, are not neglected. The following programme will illustrate their character: Beethoven, Trio, op. 1, No. 2; Hummel, Sonata for Piano and 'Cello; Nicode, Burlesque, op. 28; Raff, Etude Mélodique; Liszt, Rhapsodie Hongroise, No. 6,—piano pieces; Weber, Duo for Piano and 'Cello, themes from "Der Freischütz"; Robaudi, song, "Bright Star of Love"; Joseffy, Pizzicati; Rubinstein, Galop, "Le Bal," piano pieces; Mozart, Trio, op. 16.

At each school, both class and private lessons are given, the fee for tuition in classes of four averaging $15 per quarter. Each school year is divided into terms of about eight weeks.

THE MUSICAL YEAR IN THE UNITED STATES.

THIS department is a new feature this season. The few lines in the Preface testify the compiler's estimate of it, and his hopes concerning its continuance and development in future issues of the "Year Book."

New York.

The notable operatic representations in New York numbered one hundred and twenty-seven,—nineteen Italian, fifty-two German, fifty-six English. The operas sung in Italian were produced under Mr. Mapleson's management, and included one novelty, Massenet's "Manon Lescaut." The Metropolitan Opera House Company (third season) gave opera, sung in German (second season), with Anton Seidl, conductor, Walter J. Damrosch, assistant conductor. The leading artists were: Lilli Lehmann, Marianne Brandt, Auguste Krauss, Herren Stritt, Sylva, Alvary, Fischer, Staudigl, Robinson. Nine operas were given: "Lohengrin" (4); "Carmen" (2); "Der Prophet" (3); "Die Walküre" (4); * "Die Königin von Saba" (15); "Tannhäuser" (4); * "Die Meistersinger" (8); "Faust" (5); "Rienzi" (7). The American Opera Company, at the Academy of Music, Theodore Thomas, conductor, gave fifty-six performances of the following: * "Taming of the Shrew" (4); "Orpheus" (10); "Lohengrin" (8); "Magic Flute" (5); "Merry Wives of Windsor" (8); * "Lakmé" (10); "Flying Dutchman" (6); * "Sylvia" (ballet) and * "Marriage of Jeannette" (5). Among the singers were Hélène Hastreiter, Pauline L'Allemand, Emma Juch, William Candidus, William Ludwig, A. E. Stoddard, and Myron W. Whitney.

Concerts of orchestral music, not including isolated or miscellaneous affairs, numbered sixty-four. Theodore Thomas gave twenty-four popular concerts and twenty-four popular matinées. The novelties of the series were: Borodin, A., "Sketch of the Steppes"; Bruch, Max, "Honors of War to Patroclus" ("Achilles"); Délibes,

L., "Scène du Bal"; Dvorák, A., Notturmo, op. 40; Fuchs, R., Symphony in C, op. 37 (December 10); Gernsheim, F., Tarantelle from Symphony in F; Liszt, F., Concert Pathétique for two Pianofortes (Mr. Joseffy and Mr. Sanford); Pratt, S. G., Court Minuet; Rubinstein, A., Dances from second part of "The Vine," Bal Costumé, second series; Saint-Saëns, Ballet from "Henry VIII.," Concerto for Pianoforte, No. 3, op. 29 (Mr. Richard Hoffman); Svensden, J., Norwegian Artists' Carnival; Tschaukowski, P., Suite No. 3, op. 55. The forty-fourth season of the Philharmonic Society, Theodore Thomas, conductor, included six concerts, each preceded by a public rehearsal. The symphonies played were: Beethoven, No. 3 (Eroica), No. 9 (Choral); Dvorák, *No. 2, in D minor, op. 70; Schumann, No. 2, in C major, op. 61; Scharwenka, X., *in C minor, op. 60; Scholz, B., *in B-flat, op. 60. Beethoven's music to Goethe's "Egmont" was also given. Besides the symphonies heard for the first time (see *), the list of new works includes a Symphonic Prologue, "Othello," Arnold Krug, and Scherzo Capriccioso, op. 66, Dvorák. The soloists were: pianists, Mr. Carl Faelten, Mr. R. Joseffy; violinist, Miss Maud Powell; vocalists, Mme. Fursch-Madi, Helène Ha-treiter; in the "Egmont" music, Miss Louise Pyk; in the Ninth Symphony, Miss Louise Pyk, Miss H. D. Campbell, Mr. William Candidus, Mr. A. E. Stoddard.

The Symphony Society (eighth season), Walter J. Damrosch, conductor, gave six concerts, with the usual public rehearsals. Two choral works, sung with the assistance of the Oratorio Society, were included: Berlioz, "The Damnation of Faust," and Schumann's music to Byron's "Manfred" (reader, Mr. George Riddle). The symphonies were: Beethoven, No. 6 ("Pastoral"), No. 9 (Choral); Bruckner, *in D minor; Raff, No. 3, "Im Walde"; Schumann, No. 1, in B-flat. Instrumental novelties were: Lalo, E., Rhapsody and Scherzo; Raff, J., "Walpurgis Night," from "Frühlings Klänge" Symphony. The soloists were: pianist, M. Franz Rummel; violinist, Miss Currie Duke; vocalists, Fraulein Marianne Brandt, Miss Carrie Goldsticker, Herr Eloi Sylva; in "The Damnation of Faust," Miss Medora Henson, Herr Alvary, Mr. Max Heinrich, Herr Singer in the Ninth Symphony, Mrs. Ford, Miss Marie Groebel, Mr. W. H. Stanley, Mr. Max Heinrich, who also had parts in the "Manfred" music. Mr. Frank Van der Stucken gave five concerts, at which these novelties were produced: O. Floersheim, "Consolation"; F. Gernsheim, Overture to Waldmeister's "Brautfahrt"; A. Hallén, Rhapsody No. 1; B. O. Klein, "Humoreske"; L. Maas, Nachtstück; J. Massenet, Selections from "Les Erinnyes"; Amanda Mayer, Swedish; B. Smetana, Vltava; C. R. Widor, "La Korrigane"; F. Thomé, "Badinage."

Choral music received its main support from the Oratorio Society (thirteenth season), Walter J. Damrosch, conductor, at three concerts. The works given were: Berlioz, "Requiem"; Haendel, "The Messiah": soloists, Lilli Lehmann, Marianne Brandt, Whitney Mockridge, Joseph Staudigl; Wagner, * "Parsifal" (as concert music): soloists, Kundry, Marianne Brandt, Parsifal, August Kraemer, Amfortas, Max Heinrich, Gurnemanz, Emil Fischer. At the first concert of the season, the Funeral Oration and Apotheosis from Berlioz's "Sinfonie Funèbre et Triomphale" was performed. The German singing societies, the Arion and Liederkrantz, gave their usual quota of concerts. Novelties with the Arion were: Becker, A., "Regen und Sonne," for chorus and orchestra; Gade, "Holbergiana," op. 67, Suite for orchestra; Scholz, B., Cantata, "Das Siegesfest," op. 59; Maas, L., Concerto for piano in C minor, op. 12. The Liederkrantz sang a cantata, "Die Seufzerbrücke," written by their conductor, R. L. Hermann. Mr. Van der Stucken gave two new vocal works, with a chorus organized by him, at his novelty concert (one of the five mentioned), February 2. These were: Prologue to Longfellow's "Golden Legend," a cantata by Dudley Buck; classic idyl, "Narcissus," for soli and chorus, by J. Massenet. Massenet's music drama, "Mary Magdalene" was sung, with orchestra, by the Lenox Hill Vocal Society, April 17. Alfred Gaul's "Passion Music" was given (with piano) by the Courtney pupils, December 15. Singing societies which gave regular concerts are: Musurgia, male voices, W. R. Chapman, conductor; New York Vocal Union, mixed voices, S. P. Warren, conductor: works, "The Dream," Sir Michael Costa, "New Year's Song," Schumann, "May Day," Macfarren; Orpheus Glee Club, male voices, C. M. Wiske, conductor; Harmonic Society, mixed voices, S. N. Penfield, conductor: work, "Rebekah," J. Barnby (with piano); Mendelssohn Glee Club, J. Mosenthal, conductor (programme quoted in full in following paragraph). Organ recitals were maintained by S. P. Warren and S. N. Penfield, while Mr. Frederic Archer gave concerts consisting for the most part of organ music. Chamber music was generously cultivated.

works: Haendel, "Utrecht Jubilate," "Zadock the Priest," "The Messiah"; Smart, "The Bride of Dunkerron"; Rossini, "Stabat Mater"; Bach, "A Stronghold Sure"; Macfarren, * "May Day"; Rubinstein, selections from "The Tower of Babel." Symphonies: Goldmark, "Rustic Wedding," op. 26; Raff, "Lenore"; Volkmann, No. 1, in D minor. Soloists, Mme. Fursch-Madi, Miss Emma Juch, Miss E. B. Kehew, Miss H. M. Howland, Miss Hattie J. Clapper, Mrs. Belle Cole, Miss S. C. Hall, Mr. Whitney Mockridge, Mr. George J. Parker, Mr. George W. Want, Mr. Myron W. Whitney, Mr. A. E. Stoddard, Mr. D. M. Babcock, Mr. J. A. Metcalf. The novelties of the Festival were the Macfarren cantata, "May Day," and a concert overture by Arthur B. Whiting.

IN GENERAL.

Atlanta: Sullivan's "Prodigal Son," by chorus, directed by A. Barili. The Musical Association, Sumner Salter, director, gave orchestral and choral concerts, chiefly miscellaneous. Berkshire County, Mass.: Haydn's "Creation"; Spohr's "Last Judgment," by Musical Association, B. C. Blodgett, conductor, at Adams and at Pittsfield. Buffalo: Philharmonic String Quartet; thirty chamber concerts, with notable assisting artists. The Orpheus and Musical Association, mixed choruses, gave concerts. Davenport, Iowa: Harmonic Society, Schumann's "Pilgrimage of the Rose," with orchestra. Dayton, Ohio: Two days' festival by Philharmonic Society and Cincinnati Orchestra. Choral work, Spohr's "Last Judgment." Harrisburg, Pa.: Haydn's "Creation," by Mozart Society and orchestra, Conductor, H. H. Rich. Lincoln, Neb.: Haendel's "Messiah," by Oratorio Society, with orchestra (first time). Louisville: Orchestral concerts at Southern Exposition, by Mr. W. J. Damrosch. The Musical Club, male voices, are entering the ranks of singers of refined part songs. Portland, Me.: Haydn Association promised three oratorios. Rochester, N.Y.: Six orchestral concerts comprised a Festival at Ontario Beach, Director, Mr. Henry Griener. The Mendelssohn Vocal Society gave Mendelssohn's "Lorelei," and miscellaneous selections. The Philharmonic Society, assisted by an orchestra which played a symphony by Gade, gave a miscellaneous concert. St. Joseph, Mo.: The Mendelssohn Society, mixed voices, assisted by quintet of strings, and pianofortes, gave several concerts. The society is in its fourth season, and its programmes indicate an elevating musical tendency. Utica: Harmonic Society; Haydn's "Creation." Washington, D.C. (capital city of the United States): Choral Society; annual concert, May 19; Barnett's "Ancient Mariner," and miscellaneous selections.

The concert tours of the Theodore Thomas and the Boston Symphony Orchestra furnished some cities their only opportunity for hearing an orchestra. It is known that the Thomas Orchestra made a short trip in southern New England early in the season, and that it was the chief reliance of the St. Louis Festival in October. Further facts are wanting, owing to the professed indifference of its business agent to aiding with information an enterprise like the "Year Book." The Boston Symphony Orchestra gave concerts in the larger cities of New England; and, in a tour of more than three weeks' duration, visited Baltimore, Buffalo, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, New Haven, Providence, Philadelphia, Springfield, Mass., Syracuse, N.Y., and Washington, D.C. These soloists appeared in connection with its concerts: pianists — Mr. Carl Baermann, Mr. Carl Faelten, Frau Steiniger-Clark, Annie Louise Power; vocalists — Mme. Fursch-Madi, Miss Gertrude Franklin, Miss Minna Sites, Mr. D. M. Babcock; violinists — members of the orchestra, Mr. Franz Kneisel, Mr. C. M. Loeffler, Mr. T. Adamowski, Mr. Fritz Giese ('cellist).

The opera company from the New York Metropolitan Opera House, Herr Seidl, conductor, was in Philadelphia one week.

The American Opera Company, Theodore Thomas, conductor, visited the larger cities at the close of its New York season.

Mr. Mapleson and Mr. Neuendorff were variously interested in the itineraries of opera companies.

SUPPLEMENT TO YEAR BOOK OF 1884-85.

The Music Hall Popular Orchestral Concerts, A. Neuendorff, conductor, were established in 1885. Three concerts were given weekly, from May 6 to June 27, on Wednesday and Friday afternoons and Saturday evenings, excepting the last week, when all were made evening concerts. Their scope is shown by the following, which was printed upon each programme, "The programmes for these concerts will be made up largely of light music of the best class, and will be of the same character as those given at the famous Bilse Concerts in Berlin." No soloists were heard during the entire season. The prices of admission were fifty and twenty-five cents; course tickets were not sold. The orchestra numbered forty-four. A typical programme was that of June 27, namely: Overture, "Fidelio," Beethoven; "Wotan's Farewell" and "Fire-Charms," "Die Walküre," Wagner; waltz, "Sphärenklänge," Strauss; Rhapsodie Hongroise, Liszt; overture, "Zampa," Herold; "Love Song" (for strings, arranged from quartet, op. 58), Jonas; mazurka, "Libelle," Strauss; march, "Le Prophète," Meyerbeer; nevertheless, the customary second number was a slow movement from Haydn, Mozart, or Beethoven. Wagner was represented by the "Rienzi," "Flying Dutchman," and "Tannhäuser" overtures; "Tannhäuser March"; Introduction to first and third acts, and "Bridal Procession" music, from "Lohengrin"; "The Ride of the Walküres," "Wotan's Farewell," and "Fire-Charms" music, from "Die Walküre." This programme, by Boston composers, was played June 17: *Concert Overture, H. W. Parker; Andante from "Spring" symphony, J. K. Paine; *waltz, "Schönes München," G. W. Chadwick; *Melodic Study (arranged by A. Neuendorff), S. B. Schlesinger; *Moorish Serenade, E. Jonas; *overture, "Comedy of Errors," B. E. Woolf; Norwegischer Volkstanz, L. Maas; Andante for strings (arranged from quartet in G minor), Arthur Foote; *Galop, "The Pops," A. Neuendorff. Other compositions by Boston composers were: *Gavotte, S. Abecasis; Scherzo in F, G. W. Chadwick; *song, "My Messengers" (arranged by A. Neuendorff), W. Gericke; *Scherzo in F, A. Neuendorff; *Waltz,

A. Neuendorff; * Introduction and Tarantelle, Rollinson; * "Evening Thoughts" (arranged by A. Neuendorff), S. B. Schlessinger.

The * refers to the course.

The Music Hall Promenade Concerts, directed by Mr. Adolph Neuendorff, continued from July 11, each week-day night, to, and including, October 3. Their programmes were not dissimilar to those of the "Popular." Refreshments were served. Selections by Boston composers, performed for the first time, were: marches, "Triumphale," "Adolph," E. M. Bagley; "Alt deutscher Tanz," Arthur Foote; Mazurka de Concert, F. Goldstein; waltz, "Black Diamond," "Spanish Dance," "American Wedding March," "Wedding March of a Marionette," E. Jonas; march, "Return," W. Rietzel; Introduction and Tarentelle," galop, "Toni," Marche Militaire, Polonaise de Concert, Von Ette.

Miss E. B. Kehew's programme of May 28 was: Andante, Variations, and Presto (for piano and violin) from Kreutzer Sonata, op. 47, Beethoven (Mr. Lang and Mr. B. Listemann); vocal duets, "The Angel," "Wanderer's Night Song," Rubinstein (Miss Kehew and Mrs. J. M. Noyes); song, "Nocturne," B. J. Lang (Mr. G. J. Parker); aria, "Convien partir," Donizetti (Miss Kehew); duet, "Ti souvien," Ricci (Mrs. Noyes and Mr. Parker); song, "O Sleep, why dost thou leave me?" Haendel (Miss Kehew); violin solo, "Airs Hongrois" (Mr. Listemann); duet, "Maying," Alice Smith (Miss Kehew and Mr. Parker); songs, "The Princess," Grieg; "Evening Song," Schumann (Miss Kehew); vocal trio, "Rest thee on this Mossy Pillow," Smart (Miss Kehew, Mrs. Noyes, and Mr. Parker).

Mr. Edward Elliott's programme, June 4, was: Italian Concerto (for piano), J. S. Bach (Mr. Elliott); songs: "Adieu," "The Inquirer," Schubert (Mr. C. F. Webber); Volkstanz, op. 13, No. 6 (piano), L. Maas; Grande Valse Brillante (piano), E. Liebling; Elegie and Scherz, op. 31, Bargiel; Minuet, op. 75 (piano), Delahaye (Mr. Elliott); Romanza from "Euryanthe," Weber (Mr. Webber); Concerto in D minor (piano), op. 40 (with second piano), Mendelssohn (Mr. Elliott).

INTRODUCTORY.

THIS, the fourth volume of the Year-Book, more nearly represents my purpose when venturing the first. Something of the timidity and hesitation experienced while conducting the third volume through the press is also overcome, because of the cordial welcome it had. A perusal of this book will convey a quite complete idea of the musical condition of the United States, the trend of the development of different sections, while one can readily perceive the communities which are progressive. It is my desire to make particular record of local musical beginnings, and several such are recorded in this volume; but until knowledge that such a book as mine exists is more widely spread, until professional musicians and amateurs understand that I am working to furnish something of value to them, and I am able to perfect my correspondence with representative people in all places musically active, I must admit the fact that I cannot do all that I would. I had intended to write a review of the year for this volume, but I am persuaded that that feature can be delayed.

One purpose of this yearly record is to uphold and strengthen the development of good music, which alone it recognizes. The table of compositions by American composers, the first I have prepared, is sure to grow each year, and I hope the Year-Book will be an ally in that field. Again I thank the friends of the book who have so willingly coöperated with me to make it authentic, and those who have given me their subscriptions. The * used indicates a first performance in any given city.

NEW YORK.

OPERA.

Permanent opera was represented by eighty-one performances — sixty-one in German, by the Metropolitan Opera House Company (fourth season, third of German opera), twenty in English, given at the Metropolitan Opera House by the National (American) Opera Company (second season). Of the former, Anton Seidl was the conductor; Walter J. Damrosch, second conductor; Edmund C. Stanton, director. Fourteen operas were given: "Tristan and Isolde," 8 performances; "Tannhäuser," 6; "Rienzi," 5; "Die Meistersinger," 5; "Merlin," 5; "Prophet," 5; "Lohengrin," 4; "Queen of Sheba," 4; "Aïda," 4; "Golden Cross," 4; "Die Walküre," 3; "Faust," 3; "Fidelio," 3; "Masaniello," 2. The leading artists were Lilli Lehmann, Marianne Brandt, Frä. Herbert-Foerster, Auguste Krauss, Albert Niemann, and Messrs. Alvary, Robinson and Fischer. The operas added to the repertory of the National Opera Company will be found enumerated elsewhere. Prominent members of the company were: Mme. E. Fursch-Madi, Emma Juch, Bertha Pier-son, Pauline L'Allemand, Laura Moore, Cornelia Van Zanten, Jessie Bartlett-Davis, William Candidus, Charles Bassett, William Ludwig, A. E. Stoddard, Myron W. Whitney. Brief seasons of Italian opera were given by Sig. Angelo, whose prima donna was Mme. Valda, and by H. E. Abbey, with Mmes. Patti and Scalchi as stars. A feature connected with Mr. Abbey's season was the first appearance in the country of Mme. Patti in the title part of Bizet's "Carmen."

ORCHESTRAL MUSIC.

The Philharmonic Society (forty-fifth season), Theodore Thomas, conductor, gave six concerts, each preceded by a public rehearsal. The symphonies played were: Beethoven, Nos. 4, 7, 8; Brahms, No. 4, E minor; Brückner, No. 7, E major; Alberto Franchetti, in E minor; Mendelssohn, No. 4, A; Rubinstein, No. 4, "Dramatic"; Saint-Saëns, No. 3, C minor, op. 78; Schubert, No. 8; Schumann, No. 1; Tchaikowsky, "Manfred," op. 58. The soloists were: Fräulein Adele Aus der Ohe, Rafael Joseffy, pianists; Lilli Lehmann, Laura Moore, and William Ludwig and Emma Juch in duet from third act of "Nero," vocalists.

The Symphony Society (ninth season), Walter J. Damrosch, conductor, gave six concerts and six public rehearsals. The symphonies played were: Beethoven, No. 2; A. Bird, No. 1, A; Brahms, No. 4, E minor; Rubinstein, "Ocean"; Schumann, No. 4, D minor. With the assistance of the chorus of the Oratorio Society, Mendelssohn's "Midsummernight's Dream" music (George Riddle, reader), and Berlioz's "Romeo and Juliet" (Marie Groebl and John H. Wilson, soloists), were given. The soloists were: Frau Anna Lankow, Marianne Brandt, vocalists; M. Ovide Musin, violinist; Victor Herbert, 'cellist; Adele Aus der Ohe, pianist.

Six Chickering Hall Symphonic concerts and three matinées, Frank Van der Stucken, conductor, were given. An eclectic taste governed the choice of programmes, the novelties in which are recorded elsewhere. The symphonies played were: Beethoven, No. 1; Haydn, No. 2, D; Mozart, "Jubiter"; Rubinstein, No. 6, A minor; Volkmann, No. 1, D minor. The soloists were: pianists, Fanny Bloomfield, Richard Hoffman, Julia Rivé-King, Alexander Lambert, Mme. E. De Roode, E. Moor, W. H. Sherwood; violinist, M. Ovide Musin; vocalists, Helen D. Campbell, Jessie H. Fuller, Marie Groebl, Max Heinrich, Mrs. J. Martenez, Theodore J. Toedt. In Berlioz's "The Trojans in Carthage," parts were given to Mrs. Marie Gramm, Marie Groebl, Fannie Hirsch, Max Alvary, W. Dennison, F. Remmert and G. Prehn; reader, Charles Roberts; chorus. Arion and Choral Societies. Other choral works, not new in New York, were: Bruch, "Fritjof and his Father's Grave," op. 27; Rubinstein, "The Nixie"; Berlioz, Overture, "Farewell of the Shepherds," "The Repose of the Holy Family," from the "Childhood of Christ."

Anton Seidl gave three concerts. These symphonies were played: Beethoven, Nos. 3, 5, 7. Other Beethoven selections were the "Coriolanus" and Third "Leonore" overtures. Of Wagner's music there was heard: A Faust overture; "Siegfried's Funeral March"; "Siegfried Idyl"; "Kaisermarsch." The solists were Adele Aus der Ohe, Carl Baermann, pianists; M. Ovide Musin, violinist; Albert Niemann, Auguste Krauss. Marianne Brandt, Zelig Trebelli, vocalists.

Theodore Thomas gave eight popular concerts and eight popular matinées. The novelties embraced in these series are duly set forth. The soloists were: pianists, Adele Margulies, Rafael Joseffy, Paul Tidden, Mrs. Dory Burmeister-Petersen; vocalists, Jennie Dutton, Emma Juch, Pauline L'Allemand, William Ludwig, Laura Moore, M. W. Whitney; violinist, Willis E. Nowell. Messrs. Bendix and Kopff played a Bach concerto for two violins; Messrs. Oesterle and Schreurs a tarantelle by Saint-Saëns for flute and clarinet.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Wilhelm Gericke, conductor, gave three concerts. The following are the programmes: Feb. 14, Overture, "Oberon"; Concerto for Violin (Franz Kneisel), Beethoven; Largo, Handel; Symphony, No. 5, Beethoven. March 2, Overture, "Anacreon"; Aria, "Ocean, thou mighty Monster" (Lilli Lehmann), Weber; Symphony, No. 2, Brahms; Hungarian Rhapsody, No. 1, Liszt; Song, "Die Allmacht" (Miss Lehmann), Schubert; Overture "Tannhäuser." March 31, Overture, "Sakuntala," Goldmark; Concerto for p.f., F minor, op. 16 (Rafael Joseffy), Henselt; Symphony, C, No. 10, Schubert.

The Musurgia (third season), male voices, W. R. Chapman, conductor, gave three concerts. The novelties were: Jan Gall, "Maiden with the Lips so coy"; C. Isenmann, "The Parting"; H. Mohr, "To the Genius of Music" (with soprano solo); Appel (MS.), "Ye Eyes of Melting Blue"; E. Schultz, "Forest Harps," with piano, strings, organ and harp. The Orpheus Glee Club (second season), male voices, C. M. Wiske, conductor, gave three concerts. Among the novelties were: Max Bruch, Scenes from Frithiof's "Saga" (without orchestra), first time in New York in English; G. W. Chadwick, "Song of the Viking"; J. C. D. Parker, "The Blind King"; C. M. Wiske, "A Father's Lullaby," "Break! break! break!"; E. T. Driffeld, "The Norman Baron"; F. T. Southwick, "O' a' the Airts." The Harmonic Society, S. N. Penfield, conductor, gave, with piano and organ, Mackenzie's Cantata, "The Bride," and Dr. J. F. Bridge's Anthem, "Rock of Ages."

The novelties produced at concerts by the Liederkranz and Arion Societies are elsewhere remarked.

Samuel P. Warren completed a series of one hundred organ recitals at Grace Church, giving thirty during the season. As the plan of programmes (similar to that of his recitals at the Church of the Holy Trinity in the years 1874-77) had in view a distinct educational purpose, a comprehensive survey of organ music was afforded; while the possibilities of the organ as a concert instrument were shown by many notable transcriptions.

BOSTON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA.

Sixth Season.

Conductor, WILHELM GERICKE.

Leader, FRANZ KNEISEL.

Twenty-four concerts and twenty-four public rehearsals were given from October 16 to March 26.

In a total of seventy-four orchestral works (a Rhapsody for pianoforte and orchestra by H. H. Huss, and Saint-Saëns' Septet, op. 65, being included), fifty-nine were by German composers, five by French, three by a Bohemian, two by a Scandinavian, one by an Englishman, and four by Americans.

Twenty-five symphonies were played, divided as follows: Beethoven, six; Schumann, three; Schubert, Brahms, Haydn, Mendelssohn and Mozart, two each; Gade, Brückner, Goetz, Chadwick, Volkmann and Dvorák, one each.

Works performed for the first time in Boston numbered sixteen. They were: Symphonies — Brahms, in E minor, No. 4; Brückner, in E, No. 7; Chadwick, in B-flat, No. 2; Dvorák, in D minor, No. 2. Overtures — Heuberger, "Cain"; Reinhold, in A major; Foote, "In the Mountains." Miscellaneous: Huss, Rhapsody for pianoforte and orchestra (pianoforte part by the composer); Dvorák, four Legends from op. 59, Slavonic Rhapsody No. 1, op. 45; Krug, Prologue, "Othello"; Mackenzie, Ballad, "La belle Dame sans merci"; Saint-Saëns, Septet in E-flat;

Otto Floersheim, Revery, "Consolation." Orchestral transcriptions: Bach-Esser, Passacaglia; Gluck-Gewaert, ballet airs.

The solo artists were: Pianists — Adele Aus der Ohe, Fanny Bloomfield, Carl Faelten, Arthur Foote (Saint-Saëns Septet), Rafael Joseffy, Julia Rivé-King, Adele Margulies, H. G. Tucker; Violinists — Timothee Adamowski, Franz Kneisel, C. M. Loeffler, Maud Powell; Fritz Giese, 'cello; E. M. Heindl, flute; Heinrich Schuecker, harp (members of the orchestra excepting Maud Powell); Singers — D. M. Babcock, Mme. Fursch-Madi, Emma Juch, Lilli Lehmann, Emily Winant. Gertrude Franklin, Mary H. How, George J. Parker, Jacob Benzing and J. A. Libby sang the quintet from Mozart's "Cosi fan tutti," and, omitting Mr. Libby, Brahms's Liebeslieder (first set). No novelties were brought forward by any of the solo performers.

Works by American composers were: Symphony in B-flat, No. 2, G. W. Chadwick; Overture, "In the Mountains," Arthur Foote; Revery, "Consolation," Otto Floersheim; Rhapsody for pianoforte and orchestra, H. H. Huss.

Brahms's Fourth Symphony was played at the public rehearsal of November 26, but not at the concert of the 27th.

scn, at Globe Theatre on February 14; "The Gypsy Baron," music by Johann Strauss, libretto by Jokay and Schnitser, at Hollis Street Theatre on March 14; "Ruddygore, or the Witch's Curse," music by Arthur Sullivan, words by W. S. Gilbert, at Globe Theatre on April 4. The Ideal Opera (Comique) Company produced a version of Donizetti's "L'Elisir d'Amore" by Oscar Weil, styled "Adina."

IN GENERAL.

The compositions of Boston composers heard for the first time were:—

Chadwick, G. W.: Symphony, No. 2, in B-flat (two movements had previously been played); Quartet for strings, D; Part song for male voices, "Jabberwocky."

Foote, Arthur: Overture "In the Mountains"; Part songs, for male voices, "Into the Silent Land"; "Cavalry Song": for female voices, "To Daffodils."

Osgood, G. L.: Part songs for male voices, Sanctus; "Thou'rt like unto a Flower."

Thayer, A. W.: "Sea Greeting," ballad for baritone solo, male voices and orchestra; Part songs for male voices, "If you become a Nun, Dear"; Heinz Von Stein.

NOTE.—Mr. Foote's "Into the Silent Land," and Mr. Osgood's Sanctus were written for the 250th celebration of the founding of Harvard College.

Mr. Chas. F. Webber gave performances of both instrumental music and songs at his rooms on six evenings; the programmes were catholic in spirit, and uniquely arranged. Features of the miscellaneous concert season were: performance of "King René's Daughter," cantata for female voices by Henry Smart, with p.f. The Hummel Septet in D minor, and a Suite for violin and 'cello by Zimmerman, were played at a concert given by Mrs. J. W. Crawford, pianist. At a concert given by Mrs. M. E. Hitch, the Douste Sisters and Mr. Schuecker, harpist, assisting, the beneficiary sang: "Com'è bello," by Donizetti, and songs by Rubinstein and Clay. Rubinstein's sonata, for p.f. and violin, in A minor, was played by Mr. C. N. Allen, and Miss A. M. Dunlap, at a concert given by the latter, where also the beneficiary played a Beethoven sonata (in E-flat, op. 7), and Mrs. E. Humphrey-Allen sang an aria from Massenet's "Le Cid," and three songs by Helen Hood.

The Boston Chamber Music Society was organized for the performance of chamber music in the larger forms. Eight concerts were given.

The Boston Oratorio Society, which since 1883 with difficulty continued its organization, gave Gounod's "Redemption" on Feb. 6, with Miss K. Von Arnheim, Miss Edith Abell, Mr. Jules Jordan, Mr. L. F. Brine, Mr. Ivan Morawski, soloists. On May 8, Arthur Sullivan's cantata, "The Golden Legend," was performed, the soloists being: Mrs. Gertrude Luther, Miss Gertrude Edmands, Mr. Jules Jordan, Mr. John H. Wilson, Mr. J. F. Botume. Mr. Frederic Archer is the conductor (his first season).

Mr. Louis C. Elson gave twenty lectures in Sleeper Hall, with vocal and instrumental illustrations.

At the Lowell Institute, Mr. William F. Apthorp delivered a course of six lectures, repeating four at Hawthorne Rooms.

The Music Hall Promenade Concerts, Mr. John C. Mullaly, conductor, continued from June 5, for a period of four months, the character of the entertainment being similar to that of the preceding season. The novelties of the course were: Waltz, "Marguerite," M. R. Macfarlane; Spanish Dance, Moszkowski; Kermesse, No. 51, B. Godard; Hungarian March, Moldauer; Gavotte, "J'y pense," Eilenberg; Notturmo for strings, Dvorák.

No especial change marks the condition of the music schools. The New England Conservatory is gradually extending its curriculum, and the school of Mr. Eichberg advances apace. In a former volume the salient features of each were presented. The Petersilea Academy is dissolved, Mr. Petersilea joining the staff of the New England Conservatory.
